MARY E. HADLEY

ALLEN H. KNAPP

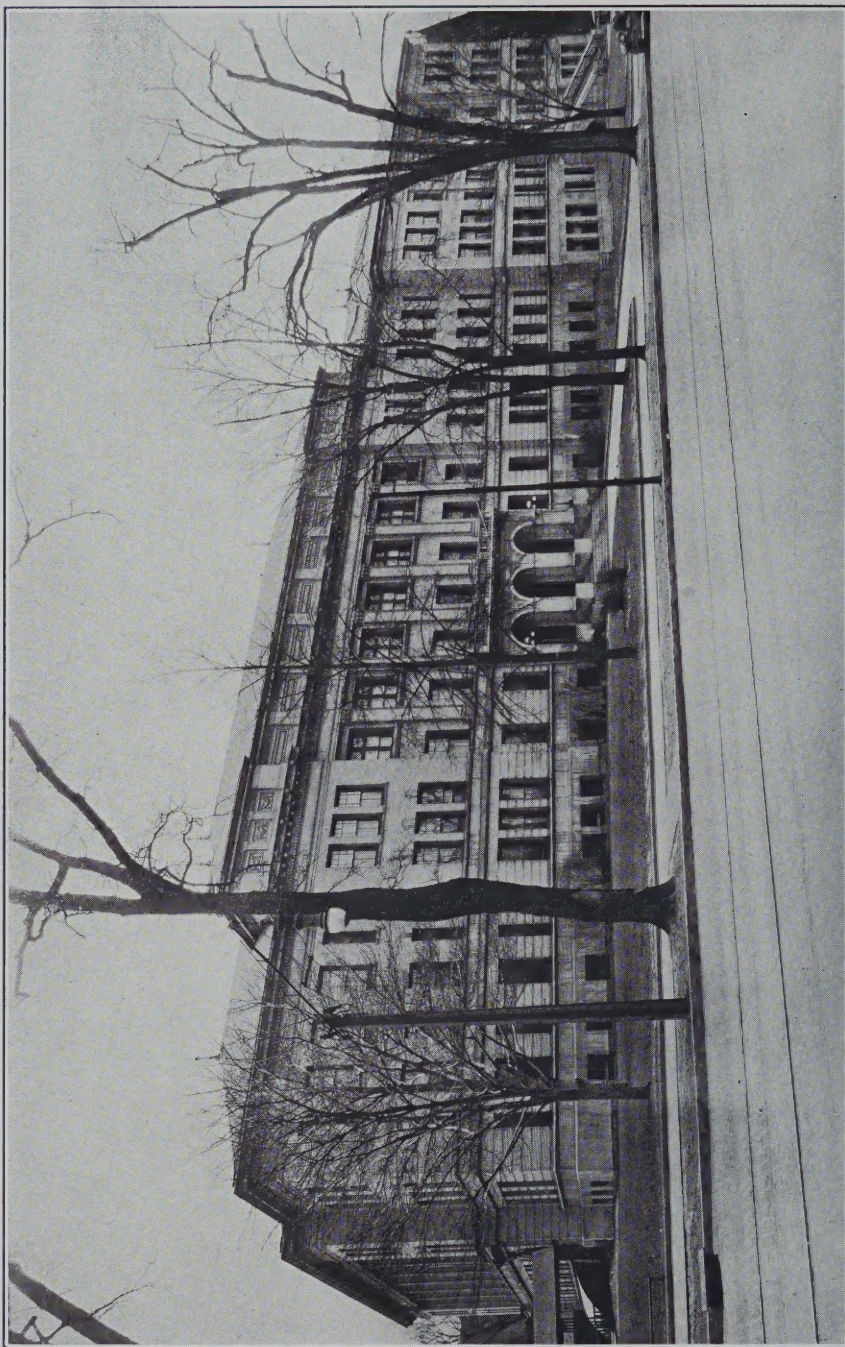

---

To
Mary E. Hadley and Allen H. Knapp
Whose unfailing devotion to the best interests of the school
Whose tireless and unselfish efforts in behalf of its student organizations and
Whose kindly sympathy with the joys and sorrows of its pupils
Endeared them to the hearts of all who knew them
We dedicate this 1927 issue of the Blue and White.

History of the Class of 1926 $\frac{1}{2}$

In the early part of February, 1924, many students came from divers parts to start upon a voyage on the S. S. Class of 1926 $\frac{1}{2}$  through the Central High School. We elected as Captain, Richard Sheldon; as Mate, Dorothy Dinsmore; as Keeper of the Ship's Log, Elinor Crockett; as Purser, Marjorie Whiting; and as Steward, Eunice Denver. All of us were rather seasick at the beginning, either because the green of the water was reflecting strongly upon us, or because we were not yet accustomed to the food served in our cafeteria lunchroom. Our first attempt in providing entertainment, the 1A Social, under the direction of Purves Harley, was a most successful affair. Even the august faculty remarked upon the unprecedented sociability of our first effort in securing amusement. Our ship's pilots, Mr. Pannier and Miss Tuttle, helped us a great deal during the first lap of our journey, but we were sincerely grieved when our Captain, Dick Sheldon, fell overboard and was not recovered until later on.

By this time, we had become quite accustomed to the mode of travel, and were really a live crew. We were all to be offered excellent entertainment in the form of a 2B Social; but as we were just then passing the equator, it was so hot that we decided to remain below deck instead. Owing to the loss of Richard Sheldon, our Captain, we elected James Brown to this position; and at the same time, Purves Harley and Jeannette Roberts became our Purser and Steward, respectively. And then came a gala affair, the Junior Prom, far surpassing the former entertainment of the second lap of our journey. An exceptional feature of the dance was the large representation of the alumni. Art Nelson, evidently wishing to help the dancers in one way or another, dispersed a box of thumb-tacks over the floor, but fortunately they were all collected before any casualties occurred.

Following, came the third and final part of our journey, capably piloted by our Senior Adviser, Mr. Smith. As we were approaching our goal, many important events held our attention. First of all, after a contest that waxed so warm that it required several ballots, we finally elected Howard Simpson as our new Captain; Alfred Mulliken as our new Purser (since Purves Harley had left our ship to travel on another bound for a different port); and Allen West as our new Steward. The other officers of the ship maintained their respective offices. Being in excellent health and spirits at this stage in our voyage, we gave an unusually novel entertainment in the form of the 3B Sport Dance, under the management of Parker Remkus. As only informal dress was required, all the dancers were so extremely at ease that the events of the evening were proclaimed a success. Then followed our Card Party which had a small but select attendance.

Now, as the ship was in need of funds, a Ways and Means Committee was organized with Allen West as chairman. This committee sponsored the sale of blue armbands, decorated with a white "C", for wear at the coming football games. The money realized from this undertaking gladdened all our hearts.

At this point, we were all overjoyed to hear that our former Captain, Richard Sheldon, was rescued, after having drifted aimlessly about since the time he had fallen overboard. We also recovered such derelicts as Paul Hines and Russell Fairbanks. Now since the time for the presentation of the Senior Play was fast approaching, we elected Arthur Nelson as Advertising Manager and Parker Remkus as Business Manager for the production. In the meantime, ye Seniors, as we are now called, had a grand old time at the rummage sale, as was quite evident from Howard Simpson's Chaucerian account of what happened. Nevertheless, we were amply recompensed in a pecuniary way for all our labors in securing and in arranging the rummage. The 3A Dance in the form of a Prize Dance next occupied our attention, and due mainly to the efforts of Mr. Smith and Robert Phillips, it was entirely successful.

Up to this time, all the voyage had been attended by calm and peace, but now all the fury of the stormy seas broke forth. When it came time for us to have our pictures taken so that none of our fellow travelers would ever forget each other, Robert Dickey was placed in charge. The storm that followed was at its height during the joint meeting of the 3B and 3A Class, but it finally broke after the Brown Studio had been selected as the ship's official photographer.

During all this time, preparations were being made for the Senior Play, The Adventure of Lady Ursula. It was presented on Friday and Saturday evenings, December the twenty-first and twenty-second; and although it received excellent applause from local critics, the profits made were not so record-breaking as to fill the general coffers with many gold shekels.

Yet we journeyed on joyfully until finally we reached the time appointed for our Prom. Despite weather conditions, the Senior Prom, the last and biggest dance that the ship offered, was an exceptionally gay success. In tribute to the memory of Mr. Knapp, who died January the twenty-fourth, the class decided to forego the regular Class Day exercises. Continuing our regular program, however, we are all now assembled at our class banquet to celebrate for the last time, with all members of the class present. To-morrow the ship will dock, and we shall all reach our goal. Then each will continue on his individual journey. Being at the point of dropping anchor, we now may end the very successful voyage of the S. S. Class of 1926½ through the Central High School.

Presentation of the Class of 1926 $\frac{1}{2}$

HEAR YE

JUDGE—Having duly charged, tried, and convicted several members of the assembled class for diverse crimes and misdemeanors, and the time for sentencing these prisoners having arrived, I do therefore call to order the Great and General Court of the State of Ignorance. In view of the ill respect in which many courts are held in this day, I wish to warn all those who have been convicted of various felonies that this court is fully prepared to carry out any threats or penalties imposed. Witness the installation of new unbreakable lockups in the corridors of our fair high school! Therefore, anyone penalized for contempt of court will be promptly removed to the deep, dark, depths of Davy Jones's—or, perhaps I should say—Franky Hess's lockers. Not referring to anyone in particular of the assembled group, I shall merely say Verbum Sap. Officer, who is the first defendant?

OFFICER—Paul Hines, your Honor.

J.—Do I understand that Mr. Hines is one of the notorious 57 varieties?

O.—No, this case is absolutely unique.

J.—Objection sustained.

O.—He is charged with parking over the time limit of three years at Central.

“ . . . . . scarcely a man is now alive
Who remembers that famous day and year,
When Mr. Hines first entered here.”

J.—Mr. Hines, here is a checker board—at last it's your move! Case dismissed. Next.

O.—Mr. James Brown and Miss Jeannette Roberts.

J.—What is the charge?

O.—Mr. Brown, the well-known presiding officer, has been in charge of many meetings in these last three years, especially with Miss Roberts. Miss Roberts is charged with aiding and abetting all the defendant's schemes, whatever they may have been. It has been moved and carried that they are frequently out of order.

J.—Mr. Brown, considering the facts of the case, it seems most appropriate to present you with a copy of Roberts Revised Rules of Order.—Miss Roberts, while we consistently frown on all illegal practices, it seems to us, at least, that we ought to furnish you a set of burglar tools to go with your Jimmy. Next case.

O.—The next case is that of the Misses Betty Brooks, Florence Whitall, and Dorothy Knight. These young ladies are charged with being unjustifiably popular with the boys. Their rivals among the unfair sex want something done about the matter.

J.—This seems to us a rather unreasonable charge. It is, however, necessary to issue an injunction. Here it is, Miss Brooks—a song entitled You Gotta Know How To Love. A little study on the subject may help in an emergency.—For Miss Whitall, here is a story—The Girl Against Odds.—Night-time is another word for sadness, as the poet has said. But as far as Dot Knight is concerned, Gentlemen Prefer Blondes. That certain party from Tech assisted us in that selection. Next case.

O.—The next case is that of Gertrude Cohen and Hiag Piligian. Your Honor, these two young people are charged with being deviations from the normal type. You can easily see in what way I mean. Something should be done to sustain the law of averages.

J.—Miss Cohen, you ought to add something to your weight, if not to your reputation. Here is the article which has helped Mr. Piligian. There's no denying it; he is a Mellin's Food baby.—Hiag, for your case, allow us to present you Nita Naldi's rules for reduction—to an absurdity. Officer, next case.

O.—This case concerns Miss Elinor Crockett. This young lady is accused of working havoc among masculine hearts. In fact, when we consider her type, we wonder whether gentlemen prefer blondes or brunettes. Miss Crockett is known to have caused bitter rivalry among her male admirers.

J.—Ah, Miss Crockett, the Queen of Hearts. As a penalty for your case, we wish that you would accept School Day Sweethearts. Read and choose. Next.

O.—The defendant is Arthur Nelson. He is charged with practically running away with the class ballot. He has been voted the most respected boy, the boy with the most pleasing personality, and at least six other things. There is also a charge against him of conspiring to become General Nelson by going to West Point.

J.—If Central cannot have an Admiral Nelson, at least she can have a General Nelson. Officer, present him with his medals. Next.

O.—The next case is that of Mr. Parker Remkus, who is charged with holding too many offices with too little effect. His zeal for offices is so great, that we marvel that the U. S. Post Office has escaped him. Something should be done to check his enthusiasm.

J.—We are not sure, Mr. Remkus, whether or not you are superstitious, but, at least, here is a sign (OFFICE) that you believe in. Next.

O.—The next case deals with Miss Eunice Denver and Mr. Alfred Mulliken. They are charged with having a mutual attraction for each other. It is necessary that this attachment be discouraged, as Central's corridors are already overcrowded with love's young dream.

J.—Miss Denver, in this little book you will find the life of Alfred the Great. If this mutual attraction must be discouraged, certainly we know of no better way.—Mr. Mulliken, after long and painstaking research, we are pleased to announce that the United States Geological Survey, cooperating with Brown's Studio, has issued a new revised map of Denver. Next case.

O.—This is a serious case. It deals with the two original heroes of The Story of a Bad Boy—Russell Fairbanks and Dwight Walsh. They are both too bad!

J.—What two bad?

O.—Yes, too bad! Fairbanks is too bad for the girls and Walsh is too bad for the boys!

J.—Speaking of two bad, reminds me of two other eggs I know. They say there is no such thing as a pretty good egg. Mr. Walsh, step up, and accept with our compliments this twenty-minute egg. That, too, is hard boiled.—As for you, Russell, it seems that nothing will cure you, unless it is these prunes, which have fallen from the trees on Plum Tree Road, after being parked there too long with others of their kind. Next case.

O.—The next is the case of Miss Rose Lipman and Miss Fay Spiro. They are charged with being over efficient. Miss Spiro's efficiency takes the form of extreme thrift. After securing bargains on all the properties for the Senior Play, she actually wished to sell the left-overs at a profit. Miss Lipman is charged with being the most efficient as well as the best girl student in our class; that is too much! We expected more.

J.—We are sorry to say that little can be done about this. We may merely place on you, Miss Spiro, our Thrift Stamp of approval.—Miss Lipman, we suggest that this System magazine twined about your neck would forever distinguish you as the Ne plus ultra of executive ability. Next case.

O.—The defendants are Robert Weeks and Leon Sisitsky. These two young gentlemen are charged with being too highly colored. If they were to blush a shade more, we should have to call the Fire Department.

J.—Mr. Sisitsky, you are charged with having too much local color; so we present you a brush for the blush. Use one end for blushes easy to whiten, and the other end for blushes hard to whiten, etc.—Robert, we have heard before of rosy dawns, and rosy sunsets, but never before of whole weeks that were rosy. Accept from us Lydia Pinkham's pale pills for pink people—after every meal. Now, officer, let's have a case of Scotch.

O.—All right, your Honor. Mima Morison and Dorothy Dinsmore, please step forward. Miss Morison has a charge against her of being the best girl mixer, while Miss Dinsmore is charged with being the most popular girl. These charges were investigated and found true.

J.—Miss Morison, as best mixer in the class, you must have to mix with a lot of eggs. Here we present you with this little contrivance (egg-beater) to be used at your discretion. Remember—if the eggs fail to mix, the same machine may be used for beating.—Dot, we have here a song arranged especially for you from the Overture to William Tell, which contains the secret of your popularity. It is entitled—I Wonder What Will Joe Sawtell. Next case.

O.—The defendants are Miss Mary Flanagan and Mr. Albert Yarlott. We understand that these two people came close to having a date together. Miss Flanagan is charged by evidence of Yarlott's picture, which she possesses, of almost having a date, and Yarlott by the same evidence is charged with irrational behavior.

J.—Mary, here are some dates (stuffed dates) with some nuts, which we hope will furnish a welcome relief from one with Yarlott. And take it from me, Miss Flanagan, at the time of their purchase, the court investigated, and found that those were some heavy dates.—Mr. Yarlott, this little flower has long been one which symbolizes eccentricities such as yours. Sweets to the sweet, crackers to the cracked, and daffodills to the daffy. Next case.

O.—The case of Mr. Herbert Clough. He is accused of taking tickets at our dances instead of taking girls to them. Did he take a girl to our Prom? No, he took tickets.

J.—Mr. Clough, lest you find it necessary to go without a companion to the next few dances, we have made arrangements for you to escort these tickets. Taxi fare need never worry you—you can go on a bicycle. Next.

O.—The defendant is Mr. Robert Phillips. He is accused of being the most vociferous supporter of all our athletic teams. He even submits to the company of Matt Walsh and Bill in order to attend the games.

J.—Mr. Phillips, your case is so slight that we have decided to give you a suspended sentence. Here is a pair of the most important of supporters (pair of suspenders). Next case.

O.—Mr. Richard Sheldon is the defendant. He is charged with being the greatest sartorial triumph in our class. In fact, it is rumored that, to gain his effects, he has worn the carpet in front of his mirror at home to mere shreds.

J.—Dick, this being the case, we present you this rug to go beneath that mirror. Better that the continuous trappings of those two feet wear out both rug and carpet, than for you to have a single misplaced hair! Next.

O.—The next case is that of Lelia Waller, Allen Cowett, and James Arthur Preu. The gentleman and lady in question—and also Mr. Preu—are accused of seriously interfering with other people's conversational rights. Mr. Preu gains his effect by force of vocabulary, and Mr. Cowett by force of volume alone, while Miss Waller makes herself conspicuous by vocabulary, volume, persistence and endurance. Put these three together, and the result is bedlam let loose.

J.—A serious case this. The disease is fatal, at least to those exposed to anyone who has the mania. Mr. Cowett, here is a flat tire, on which you will kindly vent all superfluous hot air in the future. In case the tire is unable to stand the strain, we also present you a supply of patches.—Mr. Preu, if we had possession of your line, we'd start a telephone system, that would take the clapper out of the Bell Company. Here is a pulley for it. Drag it in at least once in a while.—Miss Waller, since nothing but isolation will ever cure your case, we had hoped to be able to present you a lease on a padded cell, far from the gadding crowd, for which, on presenting it to mine host, Sheriff Clark of the Wayside Inn on York Street, you might have been able to find the society where none intrude. This, however, was impossible. The detention palace was already crowded with other inmates; so the best, or worst, we can do is give you, in despair, this record, What's the Use of Talking. Next.

O.—The next case deals with Frank Zeo, who is accused of being, in spite of his protests, the cutest boy in our class. We'd like to know how he gets that way.

J.—Well, Frank, all you have to do is answer the question in this little song, Where'd You Get Those Eyes? Next case.

O.—The next and last case concerns Miss Rose Clancy. She is accused of an undue propensity for holding hands, especially during the evening performances of "Lady Ursula" was this fact noticed.

J.—Ah, Rose, we see you have many palmy days ahead of you. Heh, heh! All we wish to suggest is that you know your stuff. Here is a book of Palmistry. Yes, Rose, we've got to hand it to you. Court is dismissed.

HOWARD SIMPSON
ALLEN WEST

Prophecy of the Class of 1926 $\frac{1}{2}$

Time: 1947.

Place: State Street Subway.

Characters: Arthur Preu and Eunice
Denver, both reading newspapers.

Eunice:—Oh, what of those we used to know

At dear old Central, long ago?

Arthur:—Those were the good old days,
you bet;

Their memory lingers with me yet.

E.—Yes, we hear of them now and then.

What's this I find upon page ten?

Howie Simpson's a doctor, I see;

But he'll get no patronage from me,

And his partner grim is Allen West;

When Howie's through, he does the rest.

A.—Of social fame is Adeline Hall;

She's hostess at the Bricklayers' Ball.

And at this ball, the well-known trio,

Shapiro, Rubinwitch and Zeo,

Who, though they have no business there,

Have come to watch the public stare;

For they are movie stars, you see,

In search of some publicity.

Yarlott and Gelfman, the famous twain,

With fancy dancing will entertain;

And Herbie Clough will pass the hat,

And render "Casey at the Bat".

Dorothy Robbins and Jimmie Brown,

Whose voices bring them wide renown,

Sing to night at the grand event,

(The management will raise the rent!)

And music for the grand soiree

Litman's Rubber Band will play.

E.—But drop that page, and look at this:

Here's an item you mustn't miss;

For here I find that Lucille Nay

Has been a bride ten years today;

Her husband has attained such fame

That in the papers they print his name

As Russell Neilson, the Cabbage King,

Whose praises loud the people sing.

And here's some more that makes me start,

It's all about our handsome Art,

Now General Nelson, gruff and stout,

Who's had, they say, a falling out

With Captain Burt of the Horse Marines;

The latter's gift for making scenes

Has made our general turn quite red.
(The paper prints about half he said.)

A.—But let us turn to the sporting sheet,

And see what there our gaze doth meet.

The first I see is a new Babe Ruth,

Whom, it seems, I knew in youth

As Parker Remkus, a batsman bold,

Whom Manager Walsh to the Yankees sold.

And here beside him on the page,

Is a brilliant star of the speaking stage,

Who's come down to see her classmate play.

Her name is known to all they say,

As Gertrude Herrick, a stunning blonde,

Of whom so many boys were fond

In days of old at Central High,

Where she cost poor Mulligan many a sigh.

And here's Piligian for a jest

Holding horses on his chest;

But in his leisure, though few know it,

The paper says he is a poet.

And Fighting Callahan, the boxing champ,

Whose chances of winning are rather damp,

Will hold a bout with Mendel Mazer,

Inventor of the Scrape'em Razor.

E.—Come, that's about enough from you.

What's this news that's come to view?

For now I see in headlines bold

That Cote's latest book's been sold

For a million bucks in solid gold,

Though Alan Brigham, the critic noted,

The book as something awful voted.

But the paper says that Alan's sore,

And was out to get poor Cote's gore.

And here I see that Elinor Crockett

Is also much inclined to mock it,

As she another book has writ

Which she thinks better far than it.

(We read it and our sides did split.)

And in this corner here I find

A breakfast food from melon rind

Has been evolved by Dorothy Knight,

Although it doesn't taste quite right.

It also states that Emily Deitz

Is quite a star in swimming meets;

Across the Channel she plies her way,

Her trainer, Dickey—come what may—

Who made his fame, beyond all doubt,

By kicking a soccer ball about.

Till Clarence Croto took his place

Because he kicked with better grace.

A.—But hold! Another thing I spy
That almost knocketh out my eye.
For here I find that Ida Barr
Is now a motion picture star,
And Russell Fairbanks, her leading man,
With slippery hair and spats of tan,
Is, as you may well suppose,
Quite a sheik in movie clothes;
And Leon Sisitsky the villain plays,
And fills with terror Ida's days,
Although to see his merry grin
You'd never think him full of sin.
The vamp in Ida's movies wild
In school was quite a harmless child;
She's here portrayed in an hectic scene,
Her movie name is Carmen-Jean.
And music critics are raising a holler
About the antics of Lelia Waller;
They say she dances and sings in a hall,
And fills with amazement one and all.
And an ad is here for the Berinstein twins
Engaged in tuning old violins.

E.—Enough of this I pray you, Preu,
There's something here to listen to.
Among the ads for mark-down sales,
I find one may order through the mails
From Breck and Brearley's Beauty Shoppe
Vanishing cream and soda pop.
While the Whiting twins and Harriet Brown
Are planning to entertain the town
At Campbell's Theatre at half past eight,
Where the public will go to meet its fate.
And Donald Gilman is selling shoes,
(At the prices he names he's sure not to lose).
And right below him is Betty Brooks
Who's selling bananas and travel books
Which record the adventures of Philip
Levine
On his search in the Alps for the wild sardine.
There's also a volume that's seen some service
On the art of spelling by Ruby Purvis.
And Robert Weeks for months and years
Has caused his readers to shed salt tears,
Because his poetry, though not bad,
Is funny enough to be almost sad.
But look at this, if you wish to grin:
Here's a personal letter from Eileen Flynn,
Who says that Lanckton's cure for gout
Has at last enabled her to get about.
And here's a card from Dr. Carothers,
Who says his pills are saving others,

Though his claim is denied by Hattie
DuBose

Who's taken so many she thinks she knows,
And spends her time knitting firemen's hose.
She escaped, but poor Annie Connors
And Samuel Chapin were nearly goners;
They took Sam's pills for old time's sake,
And barely escaped by a lucky break.

A.—I'm tired of ads; so look at the news;
We may gain much; we've nothing to lose.
Here I note a fellow named Hannigan
Has married a lady once named Flanagan;
From her picture here, she looks like Mary
It says that she had best be wary,
For Abie Cowett, a rejected suitor,
Has ridden far in his Ford to shoot her.
And speaking of weddings, here's our own Ella,

Who's finally married a Central feller,
Her name was Mulloy, but now it's Moore;
(They say her father was pretty sore.)
And here I see that Central High
(Though to tell the truth I can't see why)
Has engaged as teacher Pauline Wight;
If she's to instruct our young—Good Night!
And assisting her I'm surprised to find
Richard Sheldon, our well-known grind,
Whose collegiate duds, he will confess,
Came from the shop of Miss Ruth Hess.
And to make the Latin course less weary,
They've engaged the jolly Miss McCleary;
And to cap the climax, there's Anna Doyle,
Whose teaching is scarcely according to Hoyle.

E.—It pains me much to stop your flow
Of language, Preu, but you must know
The advertising columns show
That Dorothy Mason is seeking a beau;
She's been Widow Roy these past two years,
But now at last she's dried her tears,
And writes to Hubbell's Agency,
(For Laura's running one, I see)
To know if Laura has a hubby
On her list who's not too chubby.
And here I note that Brother Hines
Is in a court dispensing fines
To those who disregard the rule
That Mr. Hill taught us at school;
But more than that our classmate Paul
His brother judges doth appal,
Because he entertains his court
By turning hand springs just for sport.

And when Judge Hines is out of town,
His place is taken with a frown
By Miss Rose Lipman, whom 'tis said
The lawyers watch with fear and dread,
Especially one Bernard Berman,
Who says that Rose is sure a firm 'un.
Rose has a force of lady cops,
But most of them are awful flops,
Except for Florence Cohen bold,
Who always does as she is told,
And makes her captures single-handed.

A.—Excuse me, Eunice, but I vow
That that's enough from you for now.
For here 'midst the religious news,
The Reverend Palmer airs his views,
Because he sees that Peggy Kramer
Is now a nun, and he doth blame 'er,
Although he hopes the life will tame 'er.
Our Kenneth also vents his rage
At Irene Fuller on the stage,
And, furthermore, he doesn't fancy
Aesthetic dancing by Miss Clancy,
Who, it seems, attempts to please,
With Stanley Fuller and Dorothy Pease,
The fickle public's every whim,
As lightly o'er the stage they skim.
He thinks that folks should be quite surly,
And points with pride to Ella Sherley,
Because she's now in the South Sea Isles
Converting heathen with her wiles.
And right here under Kenneth's speech
It says that Hildred Wight will preach
In the Methodist Church at half-past nine,
With music played by Evelyn Fine;
And though folks may not like the talk,
To hear the music far they'll walk.

E.—But look! This makes me quite aghast—
I hope this sort of thing won't last;
For here's a list of people owin'
Extensive bills to Gertrude Cohen,
Who runs a rummage sale each week;
(To do that surely does take cheek!)
But, anyway, her biggest patrons
Are evidently impoverished matrons,
For they will not poor Gertie pay;
And so she's sending them today
The collecting firm of Goodman and Flynn,
Who'll make the debtors cash right in.
And here's another notice, too,
About some money that is due
From Esther Roberts, the Drug-Store
Queen,

Who got ahead by using her bean;
It seems she sold some peanut brittle
Which almost killed poor Arline Little
And now Arline has gone to court,
And made poor Esther's balance short.
I think that this is rather mean;
I'm quite surprised at our Arline,
Because she's really the wealthy bride
In whom Bob Phillips takes such pride,
And he has surely too much cash
To send poor Esther quite to smash;
He owns a thousand grocery stores
Each one equipped with folding doors;
And while he sits at home and snores,
Alfred Mulliken toils all day
To make the Phillips business pay.
But then Al gets a lot of money
And gives it all to his Scotch honey,
Mima Morison, who's so thrifty,
That Al must struggle to keep nifty;
But Mima carefully saves it all,
Quite unlike that Florence Whitall,
Who casts her money left and right,
Although she earns a lot at night
By whistling tunes quite gay and free,
Although a trifle off the key.
Assisting her is Dorothy Dinsmore,
Who, the income tax says, wins more
Than all the local millionaires
By jazzing up the classic airs.
Flossie whistles and Dottie sings,
And Eleanor Lewis in the wings
Claps her hands between each pause
To stir the audience to applause.

A.—Now let us pause upon this page
For radio is still the rage,
And Lucy Packard's an announcer,
Although there're some who wish to bounce her,
Tonight she has a new comer,
Kathleen Williams, the lady-plumber,
Who to us will talk tonight
On the art of joining pipes aright.
And after her upon the bill,
A new soprano voice will trill;
Mildred Johnson is this new thriller,
(Or will be if they do not kill her)
And following then a new Paderewski,
A lady whose name is Januszewski.
Our Helen's succeeded by market prices
On everything from beets to spices,
All delivered by Mary Indessi,
Who, in spite of her job, is pretty dressy.

And after that the bed-time story
 About a giant-killer gory,
 Which Lydia Roberts at eight will tell,
 If she can above the static yell.
 Ruth Kramer then will strum a uke;
 The poor thing went and married a duke.
 How else can she support the boob,
 Unless she gives him to Elba Shoob,
 Who's made a fortune in swapping counts
 For American money in good amounts?
 Weddings with dukes she will arrange
 To boost the rate of foreign exchange.
 The final thing on the air tonight
 Will be a description of the fight
 Between John Callahan, the fighting champ,
 And Mendel Mazer, the little scamp.
 This will be given in full detail,
 Regardless of how her hearers quail,

By Jetty Roberts, who cannot fail
 To make us all both quake and pale.
 This program fine has been broadcast
 (Or will be if the artists last)
 Through the ill-will of a Merchant Princess
 In order that she may convince us
 To buy her line of railroad rails
 And brooms and candy and old tin pails.
 Fay Spiro is the lady's name;
 She certainly is a lucky dame;
 She makes much money and saves it all,
 And doesn't care if her arches fall.

Together—This puts our prophecy on the shelf;
 If you don't like it, try it yourself.
 We plead guilty; so have a heart,
 Signing off, Eunice and Art.

Excerpts from the Prophecy on the Prophets

While I was in Washington recently, it was my good fortune to witness two most inspiring scenes. I had long known about the spirited debates for which the Senate is famous, and was determined to attend one of its fiery sessions. Now I could gratify my desire, for, at the time, the Senate was struggling through one of the most spectacular controversies of its brilliant history, the dispute over the rights of the government to control the private airplane industries. Accordingly, one fine day, I set out for that mecca of thrilling debates, the United States Senate.

When I arrived at the Senate Chamber, I found the leader of the agitation in favor of government control of the airplane industry delivering a commendable speech in behalf of his proponents. He was not convincing them of the righteousness of his cause, and they were growing restless. At length, realizing the futility of further argument, he made a last appeal to their inattentive ears and completed his speech. As the Senator took his seat, the audience broke into a generous, though not a thunderous, burst of applause.

Then, suddenly, a hush fell upon the assembly. All eyes turned toward a tall, dignified man who was calmly advancing to the center of the platform. Instantly, all signs of restlessness disappeared, and marked evidence of returning interest and enthusiasm became manifest, for once again the colorful leader of the people, the brilliant President of the Senate, was rising to defend his convictions. As he took his stand, an almost imperceptible ripple of applause swept through the Chamber. It expanded in volume. Then, like a flash, the full tide of spontaneous emotion overflowed its barriers, and burst forth in a tremendous shout of homage.

Through it all, the President smiled appreciatively, and finally had to raise his hand to stay the thunderous acclaim of his countrymen. Slowly the mammoth flood of enthusiasm receded until scarcely a whisper was audible. Then, in an absolute silence, which by its stillness seemed to intensify the admiration suppressed in the hearts of the assembled populace, the famed leader delivered his dynamic address.

While the echoes of the vociferous applause which greeted him at the completion of his brilliant speech were still resounding in my ears, my mind was wandering far away in pleasant reminiscence of the many happy days spent in Central, and in particular, of the friendly, though sometimes slightly tempestuous, meetings of the Senate. I saw a tall, manly figure rise to conduct the meeting . . . my mind ceased wandering, and I smiled whimsically. Yes, indeed, my classmate had made his mark, for this great orator was my old friend and the former President of the Central High Senate, Arthur Preu.

As I left the Senate Chamber, with my brain still tingling as a result of my recent experience, I chanced to hear a name which seemed vaguely familiar to me. Involuntarily, I ceased walking and gazed about for the source of the utterance. Soon I heard it again, and traced its origin to a newsboy, who was crying his wares. Since the name still puzzled me, I approached the lad, and, my curiosity aroused, I purchased a copy of the paper. As I quickly glanced over the headlines, I caught sight of a name which awoke my slumbering memory and filled it with pleasant recollections.

In recognition of her splendid achievements in the field of literature, another friend and former classmate, Eunice Denver, was that day to receive the degree of Master of Arts at the University of Washington. She had just finished a splendid work which clearly illustrated the graceful style which had elevated her to the select circle of truly great authors. Besides her natural literary ability, Eunice possessed an unpretentious personality which, even more than her other remarkable traits, underlay her extreme popularity among the people, and created for her undying fame.

Abruptly, I ceased reading, and determined to witness the ceremonies. I set out at once and arrived, a few minutes later, while the President of the University was lauding Eunice in a brilliant speech . . . . .

At length the presentation of the degree was at hand. While the huge audience, gathered to do her honor, watched in rapt admiration, Eunice rose, and, bearing herself with a friendly grace, received her diploma in the midst of a hushed quiet, a tribute which showed more than any amount of spoken praise the esteem with which the nation regarded her.

Class Song

(Air: When the One You Love, Loves You)

First we were Freshies, just new to the school,
Working so hard, 'midst ridicule;
Ascending to Juniors, we soon realized,
"Scholarship First", enticed us to rise.

Dignified Seniors at last we became,
Constant devotion, leading to fame;
But now it's all over; the time has arrived
When we must sing our last fond good-bye.

CHORUS

Farewell, dear old Central High,
Though we're bidding you good-bye,
Memories of the past three years
Fill our eyes with tears,
For we shall all miss you.
So now to the White and Blue,
So now to our friends so true
We shall give a pledge of loyalty;
Farewell, Central, we love thee.

IDA BARR

JEAN CARMAN

Class Poem

We always will remember you;
No matter where our paths do lead,
We'll keep in mind your friendship true;
To you all honor we concede.

No matter where our paths do lead,
To you, our Alma Mater dear,
To you all honor we concede.
O'er Central High there is no peer.

To you, our Alma Mater dear,
We offer now our parting praise—
"O'er Central High there is no peer",
Which we will ever gladly raise.

We offer now our parting praise,
Our loyalty and homage due,
Which we will ever gladly raise—
Devotion to the White and Blue.

Our loyalty and homage due,
Our love and honor till we die,
Devotion to the White and Blue,
We pay to thee, dear Central High.

Will of the Class of 1926 $\frac{1}{2}$

We, the Class of '26 $\frac{1}{2}$  in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven, and of the foundation of Central High School, the eighty-fifth, being in full and complete possession of our faculties of mind and body, yet, considering the uncertainty of this life and the propinquity of the next, do hereby declare, asseverate, and proclaim this document to be our last will and testament.

ARTICLE I. We hereby appoint as our legal executors, Miss Robenia Anthony, Mr. Edwin E. Smith, and Mr. Raymond Fenner.

ARTICLE II. Gertrude Herrick leaves the secret of her charm, contained in the well-known book "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," to Virginia Edson, who will have to do something to her roving raven locks if she expects to compete with our Gertrude.

ARTICLE III. Arthur Nelson and Mima Morison leave their promising reputations to the Class of 1927, with whose promising ability the school is already familiar by means of the front blackboard.

ARTICLE IV. Our Patrick Henry, Howard Simpson, leaves his far-famed oratorical skill to that Prince of Orators—Fred Finklehoff, with the hope that Fred's native line combined with Howard's fiery sincerity may enable Fred to convince teachers in the future that he was in detention even if he wasn't.

ARTICLE V. Our class collegian, Parker Remkus, leaves his whole collection of collegiate airs and graces to Thomas Bucalo. It is his fervent hope that Tommy, too, may at length be as collegiate as he.

ARTICLE VI. Ruth Hess and Alan Brigham, both impervious to the charms of the opposite sex, leave their iron-clad shields against Cupid's arrows to that susceptible young Romeo and Juliet, Matt and Marge, and all other Centralites who love "not wisely but too well."

ARTICLE VII. To Marion Davis, whose reputation for being a perfect lady and a scholar belies her real vivacity, we leave a large dose of Lee Waller's unrestrained exuberance, that Marion may have the outward signs of her inward pep.

ARTICLE VIII. To Charles McAllister we leave the honor of being the most influential and universally respected boy in the school, a distinction which comes from having done many things well.

ARTICLE IX. To Marion Neff we leave a share in the glory of Charlie Mac's prestige which seems to be hers by natural right any way.

ARTICLE X. Betty Brooks bequeaths her supply of passes for the Emergency Room for use in emergencies to Polly Walsh.

ARTICLE XI. Paul Hines really leaves Central to Wendell Ely. Let Wendell try to leave it if he can.

ARTICLE XII. Howard Simpson and Allen West, who in their childish glee can run around school both faster and louder than any other human beings we know of, leave their amazing combination of headlong speed and deafening noise to Edwin Castaldini and Signe Sandstrom, who could be a trifle louder and faster without being quite so obnoxious as Howard and Allen.

ARTICLE XIII. To Sidney Neal and Joseph Phelon, those apostles of unconventionality, we leave a large uninhabited island in the Pacific unencumbered by girls, teachers and neckties, where they may be bored and unconventional to their heart's content.

ARTICLE XIV. Our cutest boy, in fact probably the cutest boy, he of the melting brown eyes and dimpled smile, Frank Zeo himself, leaves his charming bashfulness, his unassuming manners, and his quiet determination to be seen and not heard to George Cavanaugh in the hope that the latter may embellish his already glittering personality with a few touches of becoming modesty.

ARTICLE XV. To Carol Mather, the peppy and popular inspiration of Messrs. Gage, Taylor, and Ellis, we leave a large order of rock salt for use in case any of the above fresh young men get too fresh.

ARTICLE XVI. Our Beau Brummel, Senor Ricardo Sheldon, leaves his famous collection of cravats purchased from the estate of his predecessor, the late Rudolph Valentino, to the haughty Leslie Harrington. Senor Sheldon feels that a few finishing touches like these are all that is needed to complete Leslie's equipment as a first-class sheik.

ARTICLE XVII. To Senorita Elsie Duquette, the most dressed girl in Central, we leave the Paris gown worn by our own Mr. Simpson at the 3A Rummage Sale—not that Elsie needs another gown, but that we know of no one else who could wear it.

ARTICLE XVIII. To Fritz Klein, our popular gridiron hero, we leave a large wad of chewing gum and all of Parker Remkus's supply of sang froid and savoir faire, that Fritz, too, may become nonchalant among ladies.

ARTICLE XIX. To Hazel Pike we leave the distracting red and white costume worn by Lady Ursula in the play, that she may be as fetching in everyday life as she is on the stage.

ARTICLE XX. To Alma Blanchet we leave Mary Flanagan's ability to slide into her home room at 8.29 and three-quarters, which would be early for Alma at that.

ARTICLE XXI. To Buzz Studley, the sweet sixteen of our football eleven, we leave the record, "Do, Do, Do What You've Done, Done, Done, Done Before," from the musical comedy, "O Kaye!" What could be Sweeter?

ARTICLE XXII. To Vincent Tremonti we leave our copy of Roberts' Revised Rules of Order for Parliamentary Officers, for we hear that both Vinnie's rules and his order at class meeting need to be revised.

ARTICLE XXIII. Our cleverest girl, Elinor Crockett, leaves her already overflowing stock of clever ideas to Hugh Spencer and Fred Rosenberg, whose own cleverness in "making history" is but too well known. Elinor hopes that Fred and Hugh, when supplied with her cleverness as well as their own, will be able not only to make history but perhaps even to stop it altogether.

ARTICLE XXIV. Inasmuch as William Mulligan and Ella Borkland are to remain with the school "Just a Little Longer," we have no bluffing ability to will to anyone. However, we leave this immortal pair, without doubt the nonpareils of bluffers, as permanent or at least semi-permanent adornments to the school.

ARTICLE XXV. To William MacMartin we leave a free ticket inside the lines to all Central's athletic teams, for Bill's loyalty to Coach Reid and his heroes is long standing enough to deserve a reward.

ARTICLE XXVI. Russell Fairbanks, the quintessence of masculine beauty, now resigns his pre-eminent position in favor of Melvin Scott, that slim, sleek-haired Adonis of the 3B class who may do what he can with any yet unbroken hearts that Russell may have chanced to leave behind him.

ARTICLE XXVII. To Matthew Walsh we leave a permanent pass to the library and a carton of Camels to help him through the dry periods at Central. Perhaps Chief of Traffic Mulligan will supply the matches.

ARTICLE XXVIII. To Richard Hunt, the blushing captain of the crew, we leave a seat in some English class somewhere which won't collapse and which isn't near enough to feminine admirers to keep Dick's mind off his work.

ARTICLE XXIX. Lee Waller, now, alas, no longer the teacher's pest of Central, regretfully appoints as her successor Don Barnes, who is probably looked upon by teachers with far more apprehension than Lee ever was.

ARTICLE XXX. To Owen Sutton, the languishing lover of Longmeadow, we leave an inclosed heated sedan so that he can bring himself to school and Ella from it without endangering the health of either.

ARTICLE XXXI. Arthur Nelson, with profound disgust, leaves his unsought, unappreciated position of teacher's pet to Ernest Moore, who is known to every motorman on the Forest Park lines as the boy who carries his homework home by the truckload.

ARTICLE XXXII. To Clement Taylor, wit and humorist, we leave a six-months' contract for the Keith Vaudeville circuit. Anyone who is as funny as Clem should profit by his natural defects.

ARTICLE XXXIII. To Harlow Gage, the glass of fashion and the mould of form, we leave the sure-fire course on how to learn French in six weeks. If it were not for Harlow's French, he'd be perfect if not actually pluperfect.

ARTICLE XXXIV. To Alphonse Gariepy, President of the Class of 1927½, we leave what is left of our self-sacrificing and, consequently, well-nigh exhausted faculty adviser; if Alphonse can get him to work again, he'll be as lucky as we were.

ARTICLE XXXV. To Mr. William C. Hill we leave our assurance that we will not come into his office after graduation with tales of woe about how we'd like to start our high school career over again and really study.

ARTICLE XXXVI. To our favorite man-teacher, Mr. Fenner, we leave our sincere apologies for having turned his room into a vocal and physical bedlam during our last semester and our gratitude for his friendly forbearance.

ARTICLE XXXVII. To the Misses Murphy, Lewis, and Lyon, Inc., we leave a fund to repair the equipment of Rooms 215, 216, and 217, in recognition of the damage done by Messrs. Berman, Cohen, Mulliken, Simpson, and West, except for one window as charged to Messrs. Spencer and Rosenberg.

ARTICLE XXXVIII. To all coming classes we leave our inimitable ability to uphold the motto "Scholarship First." Evidence of this ability lies in our unsurpassed record of having the names of 33 members, actually a third of the class, on the honor roll.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF WE have signed, published, and declared this instrument to be our last will and testament on this twenty-sixth day of January, 1927.

Signed: HOWARD SIMPSON

Signed, published, and declared by the above-named President as and for the last will and testament of the Class of 1926½, in the presence of us who, at his request, have signed as witnesses to the same.

History of the Class of 1927

WHEN INNOCENCE WASN'T BLISS

Way, way back in the dim and distant past, when boyish bobs were unheard of and elongated trousers marked the zenith of seniority, a host of youngsters approached the portals of learning with wide-eyed curiosity, and soon our tender craniums were crammed with worldly knowledge of how to saunter through the vast labyrinth of Central's corridors without being late to class. What a thrill we experienced when we attended our first class meeting and listened to those venerable (?) seniors expounding the theories of classhood! Amongst a veritable tower of babble and heated controversies of ambitious classmates, one cry alone arose from our midst . . . . . "Rosenberg! Rosenberg!" Excitement reigned supreme! We were to hold our first social! Never in the memory of the renowned class of '27 will our first social function be sunken into oblivion. Oh that carefree time when youthful frivolity frolicked to the capricious—"Drop the handkerchief" and "Blind man's buff." and when maidenly modesty gave vent to profuse blushes upon viewing the approach of a bashful member of the opposite sex!! At the next class meeting shrill cries rent the air, pitiful moans resounded through the spacious halls—sighs—Fort Silence with its banner of scarlet and gray waving o'er our suffering heads calmed the stricken mob.

THE AGE OF MEDIOCRITY

We burst forth from our chrysalis of innocence and found ourselves in the world of "Juniordom" with Rosenberg still grasping the mighty sceptre of '27. But gayety, the one incentive for all our famed entertainments, inspired our next merry "hop" and even our worthy elders bent and swayed to the rhythmic tunes of heavenly music. In a short time, all joined in the tuneful refrain of that immortal song, "Drink! Drink! Drink!" while the thirsty mob formed the line on the left to the oft—repeated phrase, "Come this way and get your punch." Think you that one dance sufficed? No!! Then came the Junior Prom—the best dance ever held in the annals of Central's history, where bumpers to avoid the terrific collisions would have been a gift of heaven! Not for long were we to view our coffers overflowing with the lucrative proceeds of our prosperous event, for we parted with many goodly shekels to replenish the exhausted stock of Central's furniture. Forever and anon will our generous gift be cherished by our Alma Mater.

THE HEIGHT OF ERUDITION

Our senior year began with a baffling mystery! Strange hieroglyphics adorned the blackboards and inquisitive students spent many sleepless nights attempting in vain to decipher the two puzzling letters, "C. R."—Cranberries and raspberries? No!! The Christmas Revels,—as fantastic an affair as was ever held in Central's gym where snow flakes fluttered through the air and a benevolent Santa Claus shaking the boughs of a gift-laden tree, illumined with fanciful and colorful lights, presented each merry guest with a precious souvenir. But our hearts were still bursting with joy; so our enthusiasm created another prodigious event. Talent as well as originality was displayed in this unique affair, "The Follies of '27." The audience was held in speechless ecstasy when the thrilling, sentimental episode of the Ghost Story capped the climax of the evening's matchless performance. Our irreproachable perfection was proved by the valiant grasp with which we clung to the Recorder Supremacy Banner during our whole senior year. We even attained the highest standard never before reached in the history of Central—100% subscription! Always on the lookout for novel events, we next visited all the leading costumers of Springfield, and soon we appeared in Central's gym, where the Queen of Sheba democratically danced with a lowly farmer, and King Louis, in his courtly robes, glanced more than once at a winsome Cinderella. In other words, we attended The Masque Ball. Then came spring, and the class was seriously afflicted. Each one bore the earmark of that dread disease, "Photomania;" but at last we recovered from the shock of seeing what we really looked like, and once more happiness took possession of our disillusioned minds. And now that our tale is told and the curtain has fallen, with the white-garbed spectre of Graduation hovering near, let us hope that the memory of '27 will never be as traceless as "footprints on the sands of time."

Presentation of the Class of 1927

Marion Davis—Marion, we have discovered that you have had a rather hard time trying to find the answers to the questions from "Inquisitive Freshman" and "Irate Senior", which you receive for the "Question Box" in the "Recorder." Therefore we present you with this book of questions. The answers are given on page 27.

Fred Finklehoff—Finkie, we wish to present you with one of the requisites of any good speaker, a box of "Smith Brothers Cough Drops." Take one before and after each oration, and we feel sure you will cart off all the prizes.

Les Harrington—As treasurer of good old '27, Les, you have been forced to run back and forth between the bank and Central, carrying the class dues and the profits from our dances which have poured in so copiously. Therefore we present you with this bank. May it save you many a weary step!

Hazel Pike and Sid Neal—Complaints have been received, Sid, that Hazel and you have been observed standing rather close together during your conferences, as it were, between periods, etc. And so we recommend that you stay at least six inches apart. Here is a shiny, new ruler to help you to carry out our recommendation as, of course, you will.

Fritz Klein—While you were in charge of the class photographs, Fritz, you seemed to have a hard time pleasing the belles and beaux of '27. If you had taken the pictures yourself, you might have had better results; so here is a small camera, which may not take good pictures, but you can have a lot of fun with it, playing "make believe."

Joe Phelon—Joe, among your peculiarities you seem to have a passion for bumming your way to New York. Unless you are exceptionally lucky, you probably have to do a good deal of walking; so here is a box of foot-powder. "In a pinch use Allen's Foot-ease."

Art Balchelder—When the armbands of '27 were sold, you didn't seem to wear one. We are sure that this was due only to neglect; so we are taking the opportunity of presenting you with one of these maroon and gray arm-bands.

Mildred Glaser—Mildred, you have shown your ability in any line whatever, whether it be piano playing, scholarship, or basketball. Just so you can test your ability in many other directions, we give you this book entitled "One Hundred Things a Bright Girl Can Do."

Walter Bonney—You, Walter, were one of the most influential of the founders of the Torch Club; torches might have been all right in Virgil's time, but today they seem a little old-fashioned. Here is a flashlight with which to start a Flashlight Club.

Andy Spencer—Well, Andy, you don't seem to be getting much bigger, do you? We know that you have tried wearing long pants and standing on your tiptoes without result. Here is a bottle of gland medicine. Don't take too much, or you will become as big as Brosnan which, of course, would be a terrible calamity.

Iris Conary and Henry Baldwin—Of course, everybody remembers Henry's fine work last year as the fool in "As You Like It." Hear then this famous quotation. "A fool is born every minute; likewise a person to catch him." You've done pretty well, Iris. Here's a mouse trap guaranteed to hold tight, and here, Henry, is a tail so that you can play mouse.

Elsie Allis—Elsie, you are known as the girl with the eternal grin. Now, just that you may have no difficulty maintaining your reputation, we present you with this lipstick with which you can paint a grin on your face during your more serious moments.

EDWARD CONNOR
ELEANOR DICKEY

Prophecy on Prophets

(With Apology to Longfellow)

Should you ask us whence these prophecies,
Whence these sayings and predictions,
With the sharp tang of the ocean
With the foam and spray of wavelets
We should answer, we should tell you:
From the great lakes, seas, and oceans,
Where the Class of '27,
In the course of Evolution
Have become like unto merfolk,
Dancing 'mongst the kelp and coral,
With bewildering syncopations
To the Jazz Band of Old Neptune !!!

If still further you should ask us
Saying, "Who's that handsome Merman?"
Tell us of that handsome Merman?"
We should answer your inquiries
Straightway in such words as follow:
"In the Vale of Central 'Lumnae,
He is known as Zonibahwee,
Which, translated, means 'Fritz Klein.'
He who, tho' he starred in football,
Feared the very sight of maiden,
Is now a dashing, ardent mersheik,
Ever fighting, ever winning
In his struggles with the sea beasts,
Aided by his football training.
TRULY a superb young Merman !!!"

If still further you should ask us
Saying, "Who's that fair and gentle maiden?"
Tell us of this tranquil maiden?"
We should answer, we should tell you
How that maiden did gain access
To great Neptune's Hall of Fame
Through her famous book, entitled
'Should not Flowers go to Heaven?'
When you view this youthful mermaid,
Dreamy, whimsical, delightful,
You will see a realization
Of old Central's expectation.
In addition to this glory,
She presides as reigning mistress
With a mien demure and pleasant
O'er a School of Hopeful Fishes.
Perhaps by now you may have guessed
'Tis no one but our Marion Davis.
Should you ask us whence these prophecies,
Whence these sayings and predictions,
We should answer, we should tell you,
We have used IMAGINATION !!!

Class Poem

Like a never ending army, moving through dear Central's halls,
Come the troops of youths and maidens, come where education calls;
We, just now, are in the vanguard; as we look back through the years,
There's a little bit of heartache mingled with the songs and cheers.
Those who in the ranks behind us wait to take our places here,
Must in turn give place to others; thus they go on year by year.

In the work that's been assigned us, whether we've wrought well or ill,
We've been praised or reprimanded by our General, Mr. Hill;
And the teachers who have led us, Captains and Lieutenants all,
Giving of their best to make us ready to accept Life's call.
Here's a cheer for our commanders, give it comrades with your might,
And a rousing cheer for Central and her colors Blue and White.

NORMAN K. REYNOLDS

Class Song

Central, Central, Central High,
The time has come to say good-by,
The world is calling, we must part,
And sadness falls upon the heart.
The ways we take are fair and free,
They follow far by land and sea,
But not so far that thoughts of thee
Will ever fade from memory.

Chorus

Central, Fair Central,
We bid you farewell,
On land or sea, our thoughts of thee,
Will never fade from memory.

Thy valiant sons and daughters true,
A gallant and a noble crew,
Will sweep the rolling seas of fame
And add new glory to thy name.
But still for thee our hearts will yearn,
'Till loyalty bids our return,
With eager lips thy halls to greet
And lay our laurels at thy feet.

Words and Music by WESLEY S. MERRITT

Excerpts from the Will of the Class of 1927

We, the Class of 1927, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven, and of the foundation of Central High School the eighty-sixth, being in full and complete possession of our faculties of mind and body, yet considering the uncertainties of our life, do hereby declare, asseverate, and proclaim this document to be our last will and testament.

ARTICLE I. We appoint Miss Anthony and Miss Snell to be our legal executors. All provisions, as herein stipulated, are by them to be duly executed.

ARTICLE II. To the Class of 1927½, we will and bequeath all our unusual methods for publicity, our exceptional money-making ability, and our skill in making history.

ARTICLE III. To Alphonse Gariepy, the honorable President of the aforementioned class, we bequeath the unlimited use of the blackboard in the front hall and all the colored chalk which our class hasn't used.

ARTICLE IV. Desiring to do something to further the general peacefulness of high school life, we leave to Charles Red Collins a round-trip ticket to Atlantic City in the hope that the salt air will have a defreshening effect.

ARTICLE V. Thomas, alias "Tom" alias "Nehi" alias "Isaak Walton" leaves a great gap in the ranks of the shrieking cheerleaders to be filled by any other qualified person, such as another member of the glee club.

ARTICLE VI. Louise Rickert, for whom a bit of gossip has always proved too great a temptation, leaves a grim warning to all Freshmen that Central's teachers have a peculiar habit of changing the seats of all those who whisper in class.

ARTICLE VII. Oliver Taylor leaves his quickness in retort to the faculty in whose hands it is safer.

ARTICLE VIII. Marion Neff leaves a large part of her obvious fidelity to Betty Beckwith who, we think, can make good use of it.

ARTICLE IX. Merle Sawyer leaves her ability to sell to the inmates of Central things which they do or do not want to any aspiring underclassman who wants to help the Welfare Board.

ARTICLE X. Banjo Lowenberg leaves his proficiency in rapid conversation to Nejib Boyajy.

ARTICLE XI. To Eddy Shaine the class leaves an alarm clock and twenty-five pounds of dynamite to be used in small portions at frequent intervals.

ARTICLE XII. To Marjorie Doolittle, the apple of Mat Walsh's eye, we leave a rubber band to stretch herself through school.

ARTICLE XIII. Nels S. Ferré, D. D., bequeaths his piety to Harrison Clapp.

ARTICLE XIV. Marion Davis leaves her literary inclinations and her power to grace the "Recorder" room with her charming presence to Harriet Gibbs.

ARTICLE XV. Virginia Demarest leaves the comforting knowledge that "gentlemen prefer blondes" to Barbara Beckwith.

ARTICLE XVI. Dorothy Forbes leaves her power to work successfully on many committees while she fascinates the males of Central, and one in particular, to Carol Mather.

ARTICLE XVII. Bill Mulligan, who lacks none of the qualities of a perfect traffic policeman except a barrel-shaped stomach, wills his office to any undergraduate who is willing to undertake the job of keeping a gang of hungry traffic cops from eating on duty.

ARTICLE XVIII. Charley McAllister leaves to the kid brother a football uniform to be filled out as soon as possible, and to the whole Freshman Class a record that each member will do well to try to follow.

ARTICLE XIX. The Misses Dickey and Peer leave their forensic ability to Marion Corson to be used for the best interests of Pierides Beta.

ARTICLE XX. If we do say it ourselves, we think that Fred Rosenberg, Hugh Spencer, and Norman Reynolds leave a record of excellent and energetic achievement as a Class President, an Editor, and a Business Manager, respectively.

ARTICLE XXI. Lastly, we do present to all our teachers and learned philosophers (including those of the mathematics department) our heartiest thanks and best wishes.

Subscribed, sealed, published, and declared by the above named testators as their last will and testament, in the presence of us, the undersigned, who, at their request and in their presence, and in the presence of each other, have hereunto subscribed our names as witnesses.

History

The Class of 1927 $\frac{1}{2}$  made its promising entrance to Central in February, 1925. After many ballots, William Lieson was chosen to lead the class.

At the beginning of the 1A semester, '27 $\frac{1}{2}$  gave an excellent social which was the forerunner of the 2B social.

The class chose blue and gold as its colors and an attractive banner soon appeared.

On November 19, 1926, the class held its "grand and glorious" Junior Prom, which was a distinct social event.

In accordance with the school custom, '27 $\frac{1}{2}$  presented as its gift to the school a silver loving-cup which is to be used for the 1B and 1A semi-annual Chorus Contests.

On April 22 of this year, the class held a never-to-be-forgotten dance in the form of the 3B Fiesta.

As the book goes to press, the class is making plans for a novel money-making affair and also for a brilliant 3A semester.

This class, like all others, is "the best class in the solar system." Here's to the Class of 1927 $\frac{1}{2}$ !

History

The Class of '28 entered Central in September, 1925, and was soon well represented among the school's organizations. As a fitting start to its varied activities, the class took second prize for its well-planned booth at the Welfare Board Bazaar.

In the 1A semester, the class held a successful social, which was attended by a large number of the class.

The next semester, the class banner appeared in black, gold, and gray, the first banner to have a tri-color combination. It's first public appearance was at the 2B social, another grand success.

As this book goes to press, a committee is making elaborate preparations for the biggest and best Junior Prom ever held within Central's walls. This dance is expected to show further evidence of the capability of the Class of 1928.

History

After entering Central's corridors in the early part of February, 1926, the Class of '28 $\frac{1}{2}$  soon became well acquainted with the spirit and fun of high school.

This class was the first to win the privilege of having its name engraved on the silver loving-cup in the first semi-annual 1B and 1A Chorus Contest.

In place of the usual 1B social, '28 $\frac{1}{2}$  held in its first semester a very enjoyable picnic.

Rose and silver have been chosen as the class colors, but, as yet, have not been displayed in the form of a banner.

Next, the class held its 1A social, which was a marked success.

Judging from its start, we are sure that the Class of 1928 $\frac{1}{2}$  will continue to bring glory and honor to Central.

History

In the fall of 1926, the Class of 1929 started its career at "dear old Central." Its members quickly became acquainted with Central's many institutions, and are now taking an active part in the various organizations.

In its 1B semester, the class held a very successful social, at which the class colors, hunter's green and white, appeared.

As the book goes to press, 1929 is preparing to attract a crowd of Centralites to its 1A social. If the coming event equals its predecessor, it will be one more credit to the Class of 1929.

FACULTY MEMBERS

MISS CLARISSA G. BUFFUM

MR. RAYMOND E. FENNER

The Student Advisory Board has been reorganized during the past year according to this plan:

The following representatives of their respective classes and organizations shall be members: The presidents of the six classes, the president of the B. A. A., the president of the G. A. A., the president of the Senate, the president of Pierides Alpha, the editor-in-chief of the "Recorder", the chief of the Student Police Force.

A number of students shall be elected, in addition to the above, to make the number at least seventeen. They shall be elected from and by the various classes to provide the minimum class representation as follows: the 3A Class, four; the 3B Class, four; the 2A class, three; the 2B class, three; the 1A class, two; the 1B class, one.

If, after the above requirements have been met, there are fewer than seven boys or seven girls on the Board, then an additional boy, or girl, shall be elected until there is the required number.

Three members from the faculty shall be appointed by the principal.

Upon the affirmative vote of at least two-thirds of the membership of the Board and upon the approval of the principal, any other organization may be admitted to representation on the Student Advisory Board.

The Student Police Force formerly had one hundred and five members. Because of inefficiency and unwieldy size, however, it was decided that the Force should be reorganized.

The matter was brought before the Student Advisory Board, and many new plans were introduced. These were discussed and found to be less practical even than the previous method of organization. Therefore, a committee appointed by the Advisory Board decided that revision should be made merely by decreasing the former number of members.

The Force now consists of forty members, each of whom was chosen for his efficiency without regard to his class or scholastic standing. The present force, besides handling traffic at recess, efficiently takes charge of the passing to assembly and the policing of the corridors during assembly.

Liberty Chest

The Springfield Central High School Liberty Chest is a fund raised by pupils of the school, the income of which is used in various ways in support of undergraduate activities. It originated during the World War through the purchase of Liberty Bonds by various classes. Additions have been made from time to time in recent years, chiefly from the senior class treasuries at graduation. The largest single contribution was made by the class of 1925, $320.87. The next largest came from 1925½, $278.75. The funds are invested by the trust department of the Springfield Safe Deposit and Trust Company.

According to the constitution, adopted by the school in 1919, the interest only may be spent. At present the principal of the fund is $3,729.07. The trustees, whose vote determines the objects for which the income shall be used, are: the principal of the school, a teacher elected by the faculty, an alumnus appointed by the principal, and the presidents of the three upper classes in the school. The trustees for 1926-1927 have been as follows:

First Semester

Principal, William C. Hill
Faculty trustee, Marjorie R. Latimer
Alumni trustee, Ralph P. Alden
President, 3A, Howard Simpson
President, 3B, Frederick Rosenberg

2.30 p. m. - 7.15 a. m. Almost Any Day

Don't forget to leave your locker open!—My, my, my, but I'll have to work tonight. Just think, five different books! Gosh, those teachers should make it easy for a Senior once in awhile. Say, would you believe it? I'm all ready to go home, and there's that meeting of the Prom committee that I have to go to, and I promised to go out tonight. Say, there, wait a second, I want to ask you something! Was it page 270 or 207 that he said that that poem was on, and have you got a car ticket I could borrow? Thanks, have to hurry—a meeting—don't forget about tomorrow. What? Oh, let's see, he said we were to go as far as we could in an hour. I think he expects us to do too much in one night, don't you? Marie, wait a second! I'll be right along. I bet we're late.—That's over. Now for home and study. For heaven's sake, I have to go to the library to do my sociology. Anyway, that'll finish up one subject.—Five o'clock, and I've not finished it yet. Well, I guess I'll call that done. It's raining and all these books will get wet. Now, where's that English poetry. I guess I can start it on the street car.—Hurrah! half done. I think I can finish it before supper.—Two subjects done. That's not so bad. My, but I'm hungry. Wait a second, mother, and I'll be there. Now for the eats and then the paper. Oh there goes the telephone. Oh, yes, sure I'm going tonight. I've already finished half of my homework. When do we go? At 7.30? Well, call for me. Yes, 32 Sumner Ave. Good-bye. Now for history. I think that one hour is good enough for that. My I wish that that telephone would stop ringing.—7.15 and just finished my history. I guess the twenty minute period is enough to look this over in tomorrow. Well, here goes for a good time. Hello, sure I'm all ready.—That show certainly was good, wasn't it? I bet I won't be able to do my French tonight. Good-bye. See you tomorrow.—Eleven o'clock and an hour's homework.—What 12.15? Oh, well anyway that show was worth seeing. Tomorrow's Friday, too, and I'll be able to get caught up on sleep Saturday morning. Let's see now, tomorrow I go down to Basketball, and have to have a picture taken for the Blue and White first, and go out with Marie, then—7.15 Friday morning! Get up!

What's in a Name

All month Allis had Wailed. For Weeks and Knights she had Wailed. At last came the great day. She was in Fitts. He was to meet her in the Grove. Before leaving her Hall, she Peered through the Wight curtain and saw her Roy dressed in a Fine new suit. Going out through the Field to meet him, she kept thinking of him. From afar she could see him Nealing beside a dead Robbin. Quietly she stole behind, but he heard the Russelling and Bobbed up. He was an Ernest fellow and was full of Merritt. He stared at Allis and what he saw was a Bob, Pearly teeth, Hazel eyes, and Rosy cheeks. To him, she was Devine. Slowly, taking her by the arm, he led her across the Brook and over the Moore to the Little, Brown, Church by the side of the Hill. Here, they were Maryied by Earl Goodman amid the strains of "Ye Fairbanks of Bonnie Brae," and "The Campbells are coming."

Echoes From Different Rooms

"Keep up the class spirit."
 "Now, class, when I was in France,—"
 "All right, folks!"
 "Who wants to take a walk to the office with me?"
 "All right; desk covers down!"
 "Time's almost up."
 "Well, anyway,"—
 "Hello, this is—speaking."
 "Please close the door."
 "Where there's a will there's a way."
 "Hence,—"
 "We will dash on."
 "Friends,—"
 "This last test was disastrous."
 "I give up!"
 "This is without doubt my worst class."
 "Maps, maps!"
 "Start the class, if I'm not here."
 "Of course, you know that,"
 "Stop your talking; this isn't recess."
 "Your homework."

YOU

Should be interested in having your
Diploma framed right. That means a frame of lasting quality, and the diploma put in so it will not wrinkle.
